RFH acts as a conduit between farmers and the programs that serve hungry individuals and families in our region.

Farmers are occasionally left with surplus fruits and vegetables that can't be sold due to minor imperfections. Traditionally, this nutritious produce would be sent to a landfill or left to rot in the fields.

About Us

RFH began as a project of the University District Rotary Club (Seattle) in 1982 – the brainchild of a banker named Norm Hillis. Norm and his fellow Rotarians helped to gather produce from local gardens for distribution through programs that were run out of church basements.
